

Make your own fidget toy!

Materials

- 8 cubes
- duct tape, ripped or cut into 16 pieces a tad smaller than two blocks long and one block wide

William Bell Scott 'Rossetti's Wombat Seated in his Master's Lap' (1871). Tate

Arrange the cubes in two rows of four and then tape them in pairs, as pictured.

Note: tape cut smaller than advised for demonstration

Holding the eight cubes steady, tip the formation onto a long edge and connect the center edge cubes as pictured. Repeat on the other long edge.

Holding the cubes steady, flip the formation over so that the tape applied in step one is facedown on the table. Connect the two edge cubes as pictured.

Move your endless cube into new configurations and reinforce all the hinges you created in steps 1-3 by applying the remaining eight pieces of tape to the reverse sides of each hinge. Optional: decorate all the cube faces with duct tape, paint, or sharpies.

Don't have wooden cubes?
